

Paul Nazareth Manager, Philanthropic Advisory Services Scotia Private Client Group

A passionate advocate of 'gift planning', Paul has spent over a decade seeking to empower Canadians to make estate plans and gifts to their most beloved charities. Previously, Paul was with Scarboro Missions, the University of Toronto Gift Planning office, and the Catholic Archdiocese of Toronto. Currently Paul works in Philanthropic Advisory services with Scotia Private Client Group as part of a national team. He has served his professional community nationally and locally for ten years as a leadership volunteer with the Canadian Association of Gift Planners, speaker with the Association of Fundraising Professionals and a former board member of the Canadian Annuity Association, Soldiers' Tower at U of T and the LAMP Community Health Centre in Toronto. Most recently, Paul is instructor of the Planned Giving course with the post graduate fundraising program at Georgian College.
